Dear WCS Community,

We are investigating a disagreement between two students today at Warren Mott High School that included one of the students reportedly threatening to shoot up the school. Both students have been identified, and the matter has been referred to the Warren Police Department.

Although there was no credible threat to the school, I share this information tonight because there has been a substantial amount of rumor and misinformation about this matter, including a notification from OK2SAY, the state tipline for threats.

Also, today at Green Acres, two students found a small exacto blade on the playground and turned it into administration. The blade was like those used with art projects, but it did lead to identifying a student who had another one in his possession. There was no incident at the school, and I commend the students for doing the right thing by telling an adult.

As always, parents, I encourage you to talk with your children TONIGHT about what they say or what they bring to school that will most certainly get them into trouble.

I appreciate your continued support, and if you have any questions, please contact your child's school.

Sincerely,

Robert D. Livernois, Ph.D.
